CLIPPER

THE 1969 CLIPPER

Today becomes tomorrow and all the tomorrows rush to yesterdays. Only yesterday we were freshmen, sophomores and juniors in the back of the CHS yearbook, with a challenge offering a balance between the past and the future.
CHS — encompassing lives of yesterday, lives of today and lives of tomorrow.

In understanding and deep appreciation, this volume of the 1969 Clipper is dedicated to our parents. From 1950 to 1969 their love and guidance have provided us with the challenge to succeed in life. As in each year, but especially in this year, may their every endeavor have been worthwhile.

This dedication is an attempt to express a life of love and say "THANK YOU" - Mom and Dad.

Class Will

We, the Senior Class of 1969 being of sound mind, bequeath the following gifts to the underclassmen and faculty of C.H.S.:

"I, David Lengeling, leave my height to anyone who can learn to duck low doors."

"I, Marc Peterson, leave my ability to be "cool" to Bob Adams.!"

"I, Linda Middleton, leave my ability of going with other girls steadies to Barb Breer."

"I, Jo Anne Novinger, will happiness for the future to my brother Jim."

"I, Elaine Evans, will my blonde hair to Nancy Long in hopes that she can make use of it."

"I, Jane Maxwell, will my position as editor of the literary magazine to Becky Wright."

"I, Jerry Whitaker, hereby leave my ability to love, have a cheerful hello, and drive like Parnelli Jones in Collins to David Williams."

"I, Earl West, will my ability to flunk Government tests to Bob Raines."

"I, Lynn Clark, leave my ability to talk in Study Hall and get caught to my cousin Carmon Clark."

"I, Kathy McQuiston, leave my place in front of the mirror in the girl's restroom to Susan Fronsdahl, since she was always crowding in front of me."

"I, Kathy Smith, leave my ability of the art of holding a can to Doyle Uitmark."

"I, Donna Rumbaugh, leave my ability of having fun anytime, anyplace, and anywhere to Patty Graham."

"I, Diane Huntrods, leave my ability to always get caught talking in study hall to anyone who is more lucky.

"I, John Evans, leave my studious ways to Bill Long, just to keep it in the family."

"I, Joe Fitzgerald, will my ability to hustle women to Jim Novinger."

"I, Mary Rice, leave my old piano books to Janice Hunt."

"I, Karmen Kimberley, leave my ability to spend 90% of the time on the basketball floor to Joan Altes, knowing she will put it to good use."

"I, Lisa Pointer, leave my ability to look sleepy every morning until 11:00 to Cathy Jo Carroll.

"I, Debbie Long, leave my ability to be on first string basketball and not get a big head to Nancy Long.

"I, Lois Gross, leave my position in the office to anyone who would enjoy it as much as I have."

"I, Linda Carroll, leave my blue basketball shoe strings that I've had since the 8th grade to anyone who can keep tying knots in them.

"I, Ken Beavers, will my chair in the tenor section of the high school chorus to Barry Huffaker, in hopes that he will make use of it."

"I, Chris Atwood, will happiness to Marv Huntrods."

"I, Gordon Carver, hereby bequest my ability to type eleven words a minute to anyone who can poke along at the same speed."

"I, Vicki Rhoads, leave my ability to smile and be happy go lucky to my sister Merily."

"I, Jim Titus, leave my ability to eat candy in Study Hall and get caught only twice a year, to anyone who thinks they can handle it."

"I, Ana Villanueva, will my hair, 27 inches, to Cathy Jo Carroll."

Class Prophecy

1979 Ten years have passed since graduation night. My assignment brings me back to Collins, Iowa. Soon I will exchange my title as "Reporter Jane Maxwell" for the more common role of housewife and mother. This, my last article, will be a story of the class of '69.

My research was simplified a week ago when I ran into Lisa Pointer and Linda Carroll on my return flight from Europe. They're both stewardesses now, living in Colorado. They get around so much that they were able to fill me in on a few details about our fellow classmates.

Karmen Kimberley too, lives in Colorado. They say that she is married to a famous lawyer and spends her days teaching elementary students.

According to them, Linda Middleton is a commercial artist in New York City and earning huge sums of money with her clever drawings.

Donna Rumbaugh worked for awhile after graduation, then started to travel. Nothing is official yet, but they believe she will soon marry a man she met on one of her international jaunts.

They told me that Vicki Rhoads and Lynn Clark are both married. Vicki lives in West Virginia and plans to raise her two children there. Lynn is well on her way to attaining her goal, twelve happy, healthy kids.

Colorado seems to be a popular state. Jim Titus lives there too. He's in the secret service they say.

Ana Villanueva returned to Argentina after graduation, finished college and is honeymooning somewhere in Africa. This is her husband's second safari; her first.

But they could tell me no more. Thus, my return to Collins.

And who do I run into on Main Street? Or should I say what? You see, at first it is nearly impossible to recognize good old Marc Peterson. He has grown his hair to a point where it inevitably becomes tangled in his love beads. Once I was able to break the hair barrier, Marc told me about a few of the other members of the class of '69.

Joe Fitzgerald, he said, is closely associated with Hugh Hefner as the assistant editor of Playboy Magazine. He gets his phone numbers from Kathy Smith, who knows the swingers because she stays "where the action is."

Marc says that John Evans is a brain surgeon for Mary Greely Hospital in Ames and adds that he seems to be doing quite well for himself.

Jerry Whitaker is still reckoning with his computors in search of a faultless way to win at poker.

Earl West is married and living in Mingo.

Dave Lengeling is tearing around In South America - supposedly building commercial broadcast transmitters. But then, you never know for sure about Dave.

At this point in the conversation, Marc jumped on his cycle, mumbled something about an appointment with his hairdresser, and was gone. I had to resort to visiting some of the parents to find more information.

Gordon Carver's mom proudly reported that he is an artist, living in an upper middle class neighborhood with his wife. His mother was also able to tell me that JoAnne Novinger is married after touring the world as an anthropologist and that Lois Gross is teaching science in a southern high school.

Through local gossip, I learned that Diane Huntrods is abroad pursuing the fascinating career of a foreign correspondant.

Kathy McQuiston, who married shortly after graduation, is raising her two children here in Iowa.

Chris Atwood reportedly completed her education with honors and is cheering the sick as a registered nurse. She's married to a tall, handsome fellow.

Deb Long has her own hair styling salon and seems to be quite successful in inventing new and far out hair-dos.

Our famous accompanist, Mary Rice, has become a Mormon and is traveling with the Mormon Tabernacle Choir.

Elaine Evans is in Portland, supervising a social welfare agency. Rumor goes that she has been seen often with a tall, blonde millionaire.

Ken Beavers has completed college and his hitch in the service and recently passed the test that puts him well on his way to becoming a well paid Certified Public Accountant.

So now I have it, all of the facts I need to complete the article. As I once again leave Collins I think of our class motto, "Success is not a destination, but a journey." Has it not been proved true?
